TORTS AND RIGHTS

ROBERT STEVENS, Professor of Commercial Law, University College London, Barrister and formerly Lecturer at the University of Oxford, and Fellow of Lady Margaret Hall

'A valuable contribution to the subject.'

Lord Hoffmann, from the Foreword

The law of torts is concerned with the secondary obligations generated by the infringement of primary rights. This work seeks to show that this apparently simple proposition enables us to understand the law of torts as found in the common law.

Using primarily English materials, but drawing heavily upon the law of other common law jurisdictions, Stevens provides an account of the law of torts which relies upon the core material familiar to most students and practitioners with a grasp of the law of torts.

This material is drawn together in support of a single argument in a provocative and accessible style, and puts forward a new theoretical model for analysing the law of torts, providing an overarching framework for radically reconceiving the subject.

- Devises an entirely new theory which reconceives the law of torts
- Comparative analysis of primary materials from all the major common law legal systems
