

OXFORD STUDIES IN PRIVATE LAW THEORY

Oxford University Press is pleased to announce a call for papers for Volume II of Oxford Studies in Private Law Theory, edited by Paul Miller (Notre Dame) and John Oberdiek (Rutgers), and to issue a call for papers for the first volume.

Oxford Studies in Private Law Theory is a series of biennial volumes showcasing the best article-length work across private law theory. The series will publish exceptional work exploring the full range of private law's domains and doctrines—including contract, property, tort, and fiduciary law as well as equity, unjust enrichment, and remedies—and employing diverse methodological approaches to individual areas of private law as well as to private law in general. Submissions should be approximately 12,000 words, inclusive of footnotes. The deadline for submission is 1 March 2021.

All accepted papers will, circumstances allowing, be presented at the National University of Singapore in August 2021. The Rutgers Institute for Law and Philosophy and the National University of Singapore will cover the expense of contributors' travel and accommodation.

To submit a paper for consideration, please email John Oberdiek at oberdiek@law.rutgers.edu and Paul Miller at paul.miller@nd.edu

Oxford Studies in Private Law Theory

Series Editors

Paul Miller (Notre Dame) and John Oberdiek (Rutgers)

Advisory Board

Lisa Austin (Toronto) Molly Brady (Harvard)

Hanoch Dagan (Tel Aviv) John Goldberg (Harvard)

Matthew Harding (Melbourne) Irit Samet-Porat (KCL)

Seana Shiffrin (UCLA)